

Publishers Association of the West and Simon Fraser University's Summer Publishing Workshops have joined together to offer PubWest members an opportunity to attend the two-week Book Publishing Immersion Workshop in beautiful Vancouver, British Columbia. The Summer Publishing Workshops operate within the Canadian Centre for Studies in Publishing (CCSP).

This is a unique partnership between SFU and PubWest to create a solid bridge between publishers throughout North America. Global integration within the publishing industry has meant the publishing process is more and more often a cross-national experience.

About the Book Publishing Immersion Workshop

This challenging, exciting and industry-driven workshop features over 30 of North America's top publishing professionals who work with participants in a simulated publishing house, and share their insights about this exciting industry. From July 11-24, participants work side by side some of the top minds in publishing in a combination of stimulating lectures, hands-on workshops and group and individual book publishing projects at SFU's Harbour Centre in the heart of beautiful downtown Vancouver, British Columbia.

Faculty come from all over Canada and the US and include the top thinkers in publishing today.

The Simon Fraser University Summer Publishing Workshops program comprises over 40 workshops and is the top professional development training centre in publishing in Canada. Visit www.sfu.ca/pubworks for complete details. The scholarship is valued at $2,295cdn and includes several social activities such as a Saturday night boat cruise.
