ABC-CLIO is a closely held publisher of educational and reference products. The company focuses on history and social studies resources for the scholar, student, teacher, and librarian in universities and secondary schools.

As a company, ABC-CLIO takes pride in constantly reinventing itself. This reinvention requires experimentation at a time when there are many unresolved issues and great uncertainties. Today's new technologies, new paradigms, and new business models provide great opportunities for innovation that can positively impact history, scholarship, and education.

Berrett-Koehler is an independent publisher dedicated to an ambitious mission: creating a world that works for all. We believe that to truly create a better world, action is needed at all levels—individual, organizational, and societal—so we publish in the areas of personal growth, business, and current affairs. A major theme of our books is "Opening Up New Space." These books challenge conventional thinking, introduce new ideas, and foster positive change. Their common quest is to change the underlying beliefs, mindsets, institutions, and structures that keep generating the same cycles of problems, no matter who our leaders are or what improvement programs we adopt.

Bloomfield Press is the largest publisher and distributor of gun-law books in the nation, with more than 250 items offered. Although often shunned (or feared) in traditional book circles, the gun-law niche is huge. Our books and DVDs provide plain-English descriptions of gun-law and related information, educating that constituency. Our 10th book, Supreme Court Gun Cases, is an exhaustive review of the Court's first 92 gun cases, disproving the malicious myth that the Court has said little about firearms. Love it or loathe it, the NRA named Supreme Court Gun Cases one of the all-time Top 10 books on Second Amendment rights.

Founded in 1881, Bradford Publishing Company is Colorado's oldest and most trusted publisher of legal information, including legal forms, electronic legal forms, law books, and statutes. Located in Denver's historic LoDo district, Bradford Publishing provides legal forms and reference materials on a variety of legal topics for attorneys, other professionals, and consumers.

Our commitment to quality is the cornerstone of Bradford's business philosophy, and we provide the most up-to-date line of legal products available. While we do not engage in the practice of law, we do engage the services of attorneys, who specialize in keeping our forms revised in accordance with legislative acts, court decisions, and the needs of the legal, financial, and real estate professions. We also regularly update the content of our books and other publications, so you can rely on us to have the most accurate and current information available.

In addition to maintaining a complete line of legal forms, we have an expanding library of books for lawyers and other business professionals in Colorado. With over 50 books already in print, our goal is to introduce new books each year, solidifying our commitment to Colorado's legal community.

Our products are available through our Website, our new eBook store, and our retail store. And most legal forms and booklets are available to download electronically.

Indie Ink is an emerging Canadian-based publisher of high quality, beautifully designed books that stand out on the physical and virtual shelf. We intend to also lead in producing "dynamic" books, and through our collaborative business model, we act as an equal business and creative business partner with our authors.

Our books represent FRESH views, voices or ideas. Views that startle and provoke. Voices that you want to argue with, or that make you tremble. Ideas that never occurred to you, and you must share with your best friend.

Our first book became a Canadian best-seller in 40 days in the marketplace, and we intend to keep producing thought provoking and entertaining content that crosses all geographic, social and political borders.

Founded in 1975, Interweave produces magazines, books, videos, and online communities related to fiber, thread, needlework, beads, art quilting, art instruction, and mixed media. Throughout Interweave's evolution, its products have focused on the creative arts and handmade processes, a respect for "doing," and an appreciation of the fine, simple things in life. Interweave publishes numerous magazines, including Beadwork, Handwoven, Interweave Knits, PieceWork, Jewelry Stringing, Spin•Off, Interweave Crochet, Cloth Paper Scissors, Quilting Arts, Stitch, Jewelry Artist, and American Artist. Additionally, Interweave produces three television shows that can be seen on public television: Quilting Arts TV; Beads, Baubles and Jewels; and Knitting Daily TV. Interweave is dedicated to creating a resource where its customers can find the best information in their field of interest—the latest news, the best products, the newest techniques, and the history behind the techniques.

Mountain Press is an independent, regional book publisher specializing in natural history, history, skiing, and western Americana books, as well as field guides. The books we publish seek to interpret our landscape, to clarify our understanding of the natural world, to see wonder in the commonplace, or to reflect on times past for insight.

Our books are packed with information presented in a clear, usable, and understandable style. Our goal is to produce books that inform while pleasing the eye—books that inspire your intellect, challenge your spirit of adventure, or whet your curiosity about the past. Read, learn, explore!

In addition to the books we publish, we also distribute titles for other small presses whose publishing endeavors compliment our own.

Launched by psychologist Matthew McKay and Patrick Fanning, NHP pioneered a style of self-help book that has become the standard. Fanning and McKay believed that the job of a self-help book was to teach readers skills they could use to significantly improve the quality of their lives. We value research-based, clinically proven books written by experienced clinical professionals. Our dedication to these standards has made us the first choice for readers and professionals looking for reliable information on psychology, medical, and personal-growth topics.

Pronghorn is a small press with an eclectic list, and some of our titles are available in digital and audio formats. We publish various books that appeal to us, regardless of category. We generally publish 8 to 12 titles a year. We have a wide range of topics, from regional history to biography, poetry to gardening, children's books to great fiction, and a metaphysical/personal growth line. Our first poetry book, Never Summer (2002), won the Colorado Book Award, and its author, Chris Ransick, became the poet laureate of Colorado. Unbroken by Jamie Lisa Forbes won the 2012 WILLA Award for Contemporary Fiction. Our printer has selected several of our titles to display at a number of trade shows around the world. Greatly expanded authors' services are now available, including pitching to the TV/film industry.

Dominique Raccah is the CEO and publisher of Sourcebooks, the company she founded in 1987 and which is now the largest woman-owned trade book publishing company in the country. From the start, Raccah has directed a continuously growing entrepreneurial company that has morphed into a general trade house, happily producing everything from bestsellers in fiction to number-one titles in baby names and college guides, twenty-five New York Times best sellers and over twenty national best sellers. Sourcebooks pioneered a line of best-selling, cutting-edge mixed-media titles (Sourcebooks MediaFusion), which resulted in an early involvement in digital book projects and, more recently, iPhone apps, enhanced e-books, and several digital partnerships. Sourcebooks has over seventy employees and publishes more than 300 new titles each year. Raccah currently serves as co-chair of the Book Industry Study Group.

The University of Akron Press (UAP) is the official publishing arm of the University of Akron. The press publishes between 15 and 20 books annually. The press's areas of interest include applied politics, early American literature, the history of psychology, legal issues, and poetry and poetics. The press also has a strong regional publishing program that covers the culture and history of Northeast Ohio. The UAP supports open access and is developing textbooks and other resources in that area. Most UAP publications are available in multiple e-book formats.
